DETAILED ACTION

Election

Applicant's election without traverse of Species I in the reply filed on 1/10/05 is acknowledged. Claims 1-3, 5, 6 and 8-17 are readable thereon and will be examined herein. Claims 4 and 7 are withdrawn from further consideration.

Abstract

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because phrases which can be implied, such as "The present invention discloses relates" (see line 1) should not be present therein. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Drawings

The drawings are objected to because reference character 35 (see line 3 of paragraph 0048) is not present in any of the drawings. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 8, 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Weber. In regard to claim 1, Weber discloses a package and application device for a product comprised of a receptacle for containing product (not numbered) having a longitudinal axis and a passageway 12, a porous or fibrous applicator element 16 (see column 2, lines 44-52) communicating with the product through the passageway, a dispensing element for opening and closing the passageway and including a mobile part 5 rotatable about the axis and capable of moving between a first position in which the passageway is closed and a second position in which the passageway is open and a closure cap 9 threaded to the dispensing element for enclosing the applicator element wherein rotational movement of the cap about the axis causes the opening and closing of the passageway (see the paragraph bridging columns 4 and 5). In regard to claim 2, the mobile part is capable of moving independently of the cap, i.e., in the absence of the cap, the mobile part 5 can be manually grasped and rotated. In regard to claim 3, the cap is capable of being screwed onto the dispensing element irrespective of the position of the mobile part. In regard to claim 8, the applicator element 16 is considered to be mounted in a "removable manner", i.e., given enough force, the applicator can be removed. In regard to claim 12, the applicator element is foam (see column 4, line 61). In regard to claim 13, the device is "adapted" (i.e. capable) of facilitating the application of product onto human nails.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stien. Although the Weber device does not include additional applicator elements stored in the cap 9, attention is directed to the Stein reference, which discloses another applicator having a foam tip 16 (see column 2, lines 61-64) wherein cap 50 has a holder therein which is used to store additional applicator tips 16 in order to enable a user to readily replaced the tip when needed. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include such a holder for extra tips in the cap 9 of the Weber device in order to enable a user to have ready access to extra tips.

Claims 14-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weber in view of Jones. Although the Weber reference does not disclose that the device is used to apply nail varnish remover by squeezing the container via a deformable wall, attention is directed to the Jones reference, which discloses another applicator wherein the container is squeezed in order to expel nail polish remover onto a nail (see column 2, lines 53-59). Such a structure is employed in order to provide the user with a convenient method of applying polish remover. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the Weber device to dispense polish remover and further to provide a flexible container such that the material can be dispensed by squeezing the container in order to enable a user to conveniently apply polish remover, especially since the Weber reference does not limit the type of material which can be dispensed.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5 and 6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
